

The City of Knoxville has enacted laws (also known as ordinances) which affect the accumulation and disposal of your garbage and trash. City services are provided that help residents comply with these laws. The City Council is asking for your help in keeping our community clean, lean, and green. They are also enlisting the help of the respective city departments in stepping up the enforcement of the ordinances and reporting obvious violations, which can result in fines of $50 to $500 for non-compliance.

Recycling

The City of Knoxville offers a recycling program at no additional charge to both businesses and residents. Materials are placed curbside on Tuesdays using a blue container provided by the City, or a container of your own choosing not to exceed 32 gallons. Your voluntary participation helps reduce landfill space along with the dumping fees the city pays, and helps keep down the costs the city must charge for garbage collection. It keeps the budget lean, the community clean, and our environment green. The city does not accept glass at this time because of a safety hazard posed by our collection process.

Burning

New regulations are in effect with regards to burning in the City of Knoxville.

No burning at all on Mondays

No burning from 7 PM until 8 AM

Only dry landscape waste may be burned, no trash or building materials

No burning of grass clippings

Weiner roast fires from 7PM-11PM, “fire pits” and grills are allowed.

Many people report breathing difficulties and sensitivity to the smoke caused by burning landscape waste. Efforts to conserve on cooling costs are often frustrated when windows have to be closed against smoky air. We encourage you to consider our yard waste collection program, which was expanded to year-round, as an alternative to burning.
